

Tourist

Name: Dmytro
Age: 31
Location: Kyiv, Ukraine
Occupation: Developer

Goals

- Visit Lviv establishments that are not always listed in tourist guides
- Taste local craft beer
- Feel the atmosphere of the city through its historic architecture and street life

Likes

- Locations that have “soul” - stylish coffee shops, atmospheric bars, authentic markets
- Unusual architectural details that can be noticed while walking
- Places to talk to locals and learn their stories

Story

Dmytro moved to Kyiv to attend university. After graduating with a degree in computer science, he worked for several IT companies until he switched to working completely remotely for an international project during the COVID-19 pandemic. This opened up the opportunity for him to travel around Ukraine between lockdowns, and when restrictions were severe, he deepened his knowledge of urbanism by watching more than one video essay out of curiosity.

Dmytro came to Lviv for the first time since the start of the full-scale invasion. His previous trips to the city (one before the pandemic and one between the lockdowns) were short and superficial. This time, he decided to stay longer in Lviv, which he believes has changed a lot during the full-scale invasion. He stayed in a hotel near the city center. His plan is minimal - to research how Lviv's craft beer scene is developing during the war, talk to the owners of the establishments about adapting their businesses to the new realities, and just wander around the city, observing how it has changed and adapted to the challenges of recent years.

Traits

Adventurous — Open to new things and experiences
Insider — Likes to explore cities through local culture and cuisine
Flexible — Flexible in plans, acts spontaneously

Needs

- An easy and convenient way to find interesting locations without a guide
- Recommendations from locals, not general Google ratings
- Map with interactive points for independent exploration

Behavior patterns

- Rarely plans trips in advance, looks for recommendations on the spot
- Often relies on advice from random locals
- Ready to spontaneously change his plans if he finds something interesting

Dislikes

- Group tours and tourist crowds
- Standard tours with lots of dates and facts
- Banal recommendations like “visit the Opera House” if they are not accompanied by an interesting story

Pain points

- Standard tourist routes seem boring and crowded to him
- It is difficult to find truly unique places without a long search on the Internet
- Many interesting places may be closed or lack updated information